The HTML4 standard supports requesting data to be requested from a client computer and uploaded to a server. The standard mechanism for this type of data transmission is HTML forms. With HTML forms a user's files can be uploaded by employing <input/> tag with different attributes. This method allows web site developers to implement basic upload functionality.

Resuming uploads is not currently supported by HTTP, but can be added with the Tus open protocol for resumable file uploads, which layers resumability

Uploading refers to transmitting data from one computer system to another through means of a network. Uploading can be used in the context of (potentially many) clients that send files to a central server. While uploading can also be defined in the context of sending files between distributed clients, such as with a peer-to-peer (P2P) file-sharing protocol like BitTorrent, the term file sharing is more often used in this case. downloads.

Common methods of uploading include: uploading via web browsers, FTP clients, and terminals (SCP/SFTP) 4b1aad93aa

Product Upload helped merchants to upload their product catalogs in either text or XML file formats. It supported bulk uploads using FTP and browser-based uploads using HTTP. After the products were uploaded, they became visible to online shoppers using Bing Shopping. Shoppers were able to view prices, descriptions, and product images, and a direct link to the merchant's website to purchase their products. Merchants required a Windows Live ID to log in and sign up.
