Climate change mitigation Climate change mitigation actions include conserving energy and replacing fossil fuels with clean energy sources. Secondary mitigation strategies include changes to land use and removing carbon dioxide (CO₂) from the atmosphere. They also store and regulate water. Wetlands store about 45 million Climate change mitigation (or decarbonisation) is action to limit the greenhouse gases in the atmosphere that cause climate change. Current climate change mitigation policies are insufficient as they would still result in global warming of about 2. sequester carbon, converting carbon dioxide to solid plant material through photosynthesis. 7 °C by 2100, significantly above the 2015 Paris Agreement's goal of limiting global warming to below 2 °C

History of creationism AP News. Multiple ancient historical accounts from around the world refer to or imply a creation of the Earth and universe. The term creationism in its broad sense covers a wide range of views and interpretations, and was not in common use before the late 19th century. chapter 9, "The Eclipse of Darwinism" The history of creationism relates to the history of thought based on the premise that the natural universe had a beginning, and came into being supernaturally. S. Although specific historical understandings of creationism have used varying degrees of empirical, spiritual and/or philosophical investigations, they are all based on the view that the universe was created.
