From the Fusion Tables website: 31331a015e In 1989, two electrochemists at the University of Utah, Martin Fleischmann and Stanley Pons, reported that their apparatus had produced anomalous heat ("excess heat") of a magnitude they asserted would defy explanation except in terms of nuclear processes. They further reported measuring small amounts of nuclear reaction byproducts... 31331a015e

Fringe science Bell, David, 2005, Science, Technology and Culture, Open University Press Fringe science refers to ideas whose attributes include being highly speculative or relying on premises already refuted. The chance of ideas rejected by editors and published outside the mainstream being correct is remote. May 1989 Baltimore, MD Special session on cold fusion" Retrieved 2009-04-14. When the general public does not distinguish between science and imitators, it risks exploitation, and in some cases, a "yearning to believe or a generalized suspicion of experts is a very potent incentive to accepting some pseudoscientific claims" 31331a015e

Cold fusion There is currently no accepted theoretical model that would allow cold fusion to occur. It would contrast starkly with the "hot" fusion that Cold fusion is a hypothesized type of nuclear reaction that would occur at, or near, room temperature. It would contrast starkly with the "hot" fusion that is known to take place naturally within stars and artificially in hydrogen bombs and prototype fusion reactors under immense pressure and at temperatures of millions of degrees, and be distinguished from muon-catalyzed fusion. Cold fusion is a hypothesized type of nuclear reaction that would occur at, or near, room temperature 31331a015e

The term "fringe science" covers everything from novel hypotheses, which can be tested utilizing the scientific method, to wild ad hoc hypotheses and mumbo jumbo. This has resulted in a tendency to dismiss all fringe science as the domain of pseudoscientists, hobbyists, and quacks. 31331a015e

Polywell The design is related to the fusor, the high beta fusion reactor The polywell is a proposed design for a fusion reactor using an electric and magnetic field to heat ions to fusion conditions. a fusion reactor using an electric and magnetic field to heat ions to fusion conditions 31331a015e

It also includes visits to see events of scientific interest, such as solar eclipses. A laboratory is a workplace and many have ongoing scientific research. They may not be open to the general public, or may only offer occasional special opportunities for public access. Many observatories are open to the public at regular hours, and have tours showcasing their astronomical research. 31331a015e The design is related to the fusor, the high beta fusion reactor, the magnetic mirror, and the biconic cusp. A set of electromagnets generates a magnetic field that traps electrons. This creates a negative voltage, which attracts positive ions. As the ions accelerate towards the negative center, their kinetic energy rises. Ions that collide at high enough energies can fuse. 31331a015e
