

Guide To Textbook Publishing Contracts

A contract is a voluntary obligation, or set of voluntary obligations, which is enforceable by a court or tribunal. This contrasts with other areas of private law in which obligations arise as an operation of the law. For example, the law imposes a duty on individuals not to unlawfully constrain another's freedom of movement... Insurance contracts are designed to meet specific needs and thus have many features not found in many other types of contracts. Since insurance policies are standard forms, they feature boilerplate language which is similar across a wide variety of different types of insurance policies.
