Food and drink prohibitions can help utilizing a resource,[citation needed] but when applied to only a subsection of the community, a food taboo can also lead to the monopolization Some people do not eat various specific foods and beverages in conformity with various religious, cultural, legal or other societal prohibitions. Many food taboos and other prohibitions forbid the meat of a particular animal, including mammals (such as rodents), reptiles, amphibians, fish, molluscs, crustaceans and insects, which may relate to a disgust response being more often associated with meats than plant-based foods. Some prohibitions are specific to a particular part or excretion of an animal, while others forgo the consumption of plants or fungi. Many of these prohibitions constitute taboos c55cce5905
