Tobacco packaging warning messages They have been implemented in an effort to enhance the public's awareness about the harmful effects of smoking. Warnings for some countries are listed below. Such warnings have been required in tobacco advertising for many years, with the earliest mandatory warning labels implemented in the United States in 1966. In general, warnings used in different countries try to emphasize the same messages. Implementing tobacco warning labels has been strongly opposed by the tobacco industry, most notably in Australia, following the implementation of plain packaging laws. Inside of the packaging or, for some packets, on a pull-out card, "health information messages" provide answers and explanations regarding common questions. Tobacco package warning messages or Tobacco packages product warnings messages are warning messages that appear on the packaging of cigarettes and other tobacco products concerning their health effects.
