7eb88e338c Delete lacks gnews and ghits. The "Thought Catalog" source likely does not establish notability, both of the companies founders contribute there. (It's also somewhat unclear what their editorial policies are.) The second source does cover the subject, but the third appears to simply be some sort of directory listing. Being associated with famous people does not transfer notability.

European contact began in 1502-1504 when Christopher Columbus sailed along the Gulf of Honduras. European exploration was begun by English settlers in 1638. Spain and Britain both laid claim to the land until the British victory over the Spanish in the Battle of St. George's Caye (1798). It became a British colony in 1840, and a Crown colony in 1862. In 1985, IBM requested Microsoft to develop a new operating system for their computers called OS/2. Microsoft produced that operating system, but also continued to sell their own alternative, which proved to be in direct competition with OS/2. Windows eventually overshadowed OS/2 in terms of sales. A husband and wife pair of writers newly turned to films. I quote from Tao Lin's article here - "An article in The Atlantic described Lin as having a "staggering" knack for self-promotion" and "Another reviewer described it (Shoplifting from American Apparel) as "a vehicle...for self-promotion." (My brackets.) Thought Catalog does say in its About section, "Our content is always vetted and (most of the time) edited." I've just read through that transcript, and my first thought was to wonder if they had read it through themselves. (I recommend reading it, if you can manage to. I found it quite interesting, and decided as a result of my reading not to offer my good wishes for future success as I often do at AfD. I think it would be a waste of time.) If this achieves notability, I think a miracle will have happened. BTW, I have doubts about the notability of Megan Boyle - whose subject has had poems etc published in rather non-notable looking places, and whose debut collection is to be published by her husband's publishing venture. (Isn't that nice?) I'm just considering whether to CSD or AfD it. Tao Lin looks to have a better case for article status (if only for a review of his second book...).
