Rapid prompting method Facilitators were The rapid prompting method (RPM) is a pseudoscientific technique that attempts to aid people with autism or other disabilities to communicate through pointing, typing, or writing. determined that, when facilitators did not know the answers to questions being asked through FC, the answers were "routinely inaccurate". Also known as Spelling to Communicate, it is closely related to the scientifically discredited technique facilitated communication (FC). The American Speech-Language-Hearing Association has issued a statement opposing the practice of RPM. Practitioners of RPM have failed to assess the issue of message agency using simple and direct scientific methodologies, saying that doing so would be stigmatizing and that allowing scientific criticisms of the technique robs people with autism of their right to communicate 1d072404ad
