Race (human categorization) Lieberman, Leonard; Kirk, Rodney (1997). Current Anthropology. 42 (1): 69–95. S2CID 224794908. PMID 14992214. Modern science regards race as a social construct, an identity which is assigned based on rules made by society. While partly based on physical similarities within groups, race does not have an inherent physical or biological meaning. The term came into common usage during the 16th century, when it was used to refer to groups of various kinds, including those characterized by close kinship relations. By the 17th century, the term began to refer to physical (phenotypical) traits, and then later to national affiliations. 1086/318434. "Teaching About Human Variation: Race is a categorization of humans based on shared physical or social qualities into groups generally viewed as distinct within a given society. doi:10.
