== Plot ==
In... De Felice was born in Torre Orsina, a small town on the hills around Terni. Of humble origins, he began his studies in contrast with his family at the Scuola Romana in the 1930s. He earned a degree at the Academy of Fine Arts of Rome, becoming a professor there. De Felice alternated lessons and artistic activity with many personal exhibitions. The most important in that period was the one in the Gallery of Rome, introduced by Renato Guttuso.
Born in La Spezia, but always lived in Abruzzo, in Sulmona and L'Aquila, he made his debut in fiction with the collection of short stories entitled "Con la 13a ora cessò il vento delle campane" (Poggibonsi, 1982), followed by numerous works with which he has ranged from poetry to fiction, to non-fiction.
As a publicist and literary critic he has dealt with Marco Vichi, Ernest Hemingway, Beppe Fenoglio, Raffaele La Capria and many others.
A young girl called Marta accepts a lift from a disabled man, Mario, who takes her to play with some rabbits he owns. She spends several hours with him and his father, Antonutti. She is reported missing by her family, and Policeman Giovanni Sanzio is called in by local cop Lorenzo Siboldi to help look for her. In the meantime, Mario returns her home safely, but the pair report they found the body of a young girl by the lake. Sanzio and Siboldi begin investigating the murder — they find a young high school hockey player, Anna, dead and naked on the banks of Lake Fusine close to Tarvisio in Friuli-Venezia Giulia.

Rome. Stefano Mancini, nicknamed "Step" (Riccardo Scamarcio), and Roberta Gervasi, nicknamed "Babi" (Katy Saunders), belong to two completely different worlds. Babi's life is practically perfect: she is a well-behaved model student, beautiful, and has friends and courtiers. Her life is divided between home, school, and an elite social scene. Step, on the other hand, is a rebel with troubled family relationships (especially with his mother) and a violent side. He spends his time with his gang of friends, participating in clandestine motorcycle races and causing trouble around Rome. Fate brings them together and they fall in love. Their love story is a passionate and tumultuous tale of two young people from different backgrounds, further complicated by the opposition of Babi's parents. As Babi is introduced to a dangerous new world that is unknown to her, she begins to struggle in school, her relationships... abb15c4472 In January 2000, he left for Pro Sesto of Serie C2.
