The scientific theory of evolution by natural selection was conceived independently by two British naturalists, Charles Darwin and Alfred Russel Wallace, in the mid-19th century as an explanation for why organisms are adapted to their physical and biological environments. The theory was first set out in detail in Darwin's book On the Origin of Species. Evolution by... 00b1f6ac16

Evolution 9212. ISSN 1088-9051. ; Doerks, Tobias; von Mering, Christian; et al. 1. doi:10. (3 March Evolution is the change in the heritable characteristics of biological populations over successive generations. PMID 16339373. 1. The process of evolution has given rise to biodiversity at every level of biological organisation. 1101/gr. It occurs when evolutionary processes such as natural selection and genetic drift act on genetic variation, resulting in certain characteristics becoming more or less common within a population over successive generations. Introduction to evolution (March 3 In biology, evolution is the process of change in all forms of life over generations, and evolutionary biology is the study of how evolution occurs. As the genetic variation of a population drifts randomly over generations, natural selection gradually leads traits to become more or less common based on the relative reproductive success of organisms with those traits. Biological populations evolve through genetic changes that correspond to changes in the organisms' observable traits. Genetic changes include mutations, which are caused by damage or replication errors in organisms' DNA. Cruz, CA: University of California, Santa Cruz. ; Doerks, Tobias; von Mering, Christian; et al.
