Much has been written about these topics in rabbinic literature. In modern times, the three largest Jewish denominations — Orthodox Judaism, Conservative Judaism and Reform Judaism — maintain the belief that Jews have been chosen by God for a purpose. Sometimes this choice is seen by believers as charging the Jewish people with a specific mission—to be a light unto the nations, and to exemplify the covenant with God as described in the Torah.

Nigamananda achieved siddhi (perfection) in four different sadhanas (spiritual disciplines): tantra, gyan, yoga, and prema. Based on these experiences, he wrote five Bengali language books: Brahmacarya Sadhana (ব্রাহ্মচর্য সাধনা), Yogi Guru (যোগী গুরু), Gyani Guru (জ্ঞানী গুরু), Tantrika Guru (তন্ত্রিক গুরু), and Premik Guru (প্রেমিক গুরু). Nigamananda reportedly experienced the state of Nirvikalpa Samadhi.

Jainism and non-creationism All the constituents and actions are governed by universal natural laws. The soul of each living being is unique and uncreated and has existed during beginningless time. It is not possible to create matter out of nothing and hence the sum total of matter in the universe remains the same (similar to law of conservation of mass). Jain texts claim that the universe consists of jiva (life force or souls) and ajiva (lifeless objects). A soul who destroys all its passions and desires According to Jain doctrine, the universe and its constituents—soul, matter, space, time, and principles of motion—have always existed. to the Jain concept of divinity, any soul who destroys its karmas and desires achieves liberation (nirvana). Jainism does not support belief in a creator deity. [a] 9be47bb9aa

Kabbalists originally developed transmissions of the primary texts of Kabbalah within the realm of Jewish tradition and often use classical Jewish scriptures to explain and demonstrate its mystical teachings. Kabbalists hold these teachings to define the inner meaning of both the Hebrew Bible and traditional Rabbinic literature and their formerly concealed transmitted dimension, as well as to explain the significance of Jewish religious observances. The Jain theory of causation holds that a cause and its effect are always identical in nature and hence a conscious and immaterial entity like God cannot create a material entity like the universe. Furthermore, according to the Jain concept of divinity, any soul who destroys its karmas and desires achieves liberation (nirvana). A soul who destroys all its passions and desires has no desire to interfere in the working of the universe. Moral rewards and sufferings are not the work of a divine being, but a result of an innate moral order in the cosmos: a self-regulating mechanism... Reincarnation (punarjanman) is a central tenet of Indian religions such as Hinduism, Buddhism, Jainism, and Sikhism. In various forms, it occurs as an esoteric belief among certain streams of Judaism, pagan religions (including Wicca), and the Indigenous peoples of the Americas and of Aboriginal Australians (though most believe in an afterlife or spirit world). Some ancient Greek historical figures, such as Pythagoras, Socrates, and Plato, expressed belief in the soul's rebirth or migration (metempsychosis).
