Many mangrove forests can be recognised by their dense tangle of prop roots that make the trees appear to be standing on stilts above the water. This tangle of roots allows the trees to handle the daily rise and fall of tides, as most mangroves get flooded at least twice per day. The roots slow

A balanced equation doesn't necessarily have to start with one of each See Wikipedia:Reference desk archive/Science/May 2006 part 2 for the archives of May 21 to May 31 2006

Mangrove forest Mangrove forests grow mainly at tropical and subtropical latitudes because mangrove trees cannot withstand freezing temperatures. a subtropical mangrove ecosystem revealed by analysis of enzymatic stoichiometry and microbial abundance for sediment carbon cycling. International Mangrove forests, also called mangrove swamps, mangrove thickets or mangals, are productive wetlands that occur in coastal intertidal zones. There are about 80 different species of mangroves, all of which grow in areas with low-oxygen soil, where slow-moving waters allow fine sediments to accumulate

Intelligent tutoring system students learn chemistry, specifically the sub-area of chemistry known as stoichiometry. There are many examples of ITSs being used in both formal education and professional settings in which they have demonstrated their capabilities and limitations. ITSs have the common goal of enabling learning in a meaningful and effective manner by using a variety of computing technologies. It has been used to explore a variety of learning science principles An intelligent tutoring system (ITS) is a computer system that imitates human tutors and aims to provide immediate and customized instruction or feedback to learners, usually without requiring intervention from a human teacher. There is a close relationship between intelligent tutoring, cognitive learning theories and design; and there is ongoing research to improve the effectiveness of ITS. An ITS typically aims to replicate the demonstrated benefits of one-to-one, personalized tutoring, in contexts a80d63938c
