The novel was published in 19 monthly instalments, each comprising 32 pages of text and two illustrations by Phiz. Each instalment had a cost of one shilling. The last part was double-length. Dickens responded to the disappointing early sales of the monthly parts, when compared to the sales of previous works as monthly instalments; he changed the Dickens's satire of American modes and manners in the novel won him no friends on the other side of the Atlantic Ocean, where the instalments containing the offending chapters were greeted with a "frenzy of wrath".
