Gerontological nursing The term gerontological nursing, which replaced the term geriatric nursing in the 1970s, is seen as being more consistent with the specialty's broader focus on health and wellness, in addition to illness. Interdisciplinary team approaches provide better health support for the rural elderly population than just having a single discipline. Gerontological nurses work in collaboration with older adults, their families, and communities to support healthy aging, maximum functioning, and quality of life. Geriatric care Gerontological nursing is the specialty of nursing pertaining to older adults 8676e5738c Indian constitution officially recognizes the Dalit community as 'Scheduled Castes' and bans caste-based discrimination of any form. The Government has since launched several programs and policies to realize 'Health for All' in the nation. Health disparities generated through the Hindu caste system have been a major roadblock in realizing these goals. These measures are in line with the sustainable development goals set by the United Nations. However, caste and its far-reaching effects. Historically, they have performed menial jobs like - manual scavenging, skinning animal hide, and sanitation. The Dalit (untouchables) community occupies the lowest stratum of the Hindu caste system.
