Reconstruction of New Orleans The levee failure contributed to extensive flooding in the New Orleans area and surrounding parishes. The Mississippi River Gulf Outlet ("MR-GO") breached its levees in approximately 15 places. Caseworkers had to help The reconstruction of New Orleans refers to the process of rebuilding the city following the widespread destruction caused by Hurricane Katrina on August 29, 2005. FEMA caseworkers were charged with the responsibility of helping evacuees find housing and employment. The storm caused levees to fail, releasing tens of billions of gallons of water. The major levee breaches in the city include the 17th Street Canal levee, the London Avenue Canal, and the wide, navigable Industrial Canal, which left approximately 80% of the city flooded. the lower income residents

Temporary Assistance for Needy Families It began on July 1, 1997, and succeeded the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program, providing cash assistance to indigent American families through the Administration for Children and Families, a division of the United States Department of Health and Human Services. Unlike AFDC, which provided a guaranteed cash benefit to eligible families, TANF is a block grant to states that creates no federal entitlement to welfare and is used by states to provide non-welfare services, including educational services, to employed people. differences in state standards of need and considerable subjectivity in caseworker evaluation of qualifying "suitable homes". TANF is often regarded as just "welfare", but some argue this is a misnomer. However, welfare recipients Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) is a federal assistance program of the United States

Foster care of caseworker retention also affects the overall ability to care for clients. The institution, group home, or foster parent is compensated for expenses unless with a family member. The placement of a "foster child" is normally arranged through the government or a social service agency. Low staffing leads to data limitations that infringe on caseworkers' ability Foster care is a system in which a minor has been placed into a ward, group home (residential child care community or treatment centre), or private home of a state-certified caregiver, referred to as a "foster parent", or with a family member approved by the state. Any adult who has spent time in care can be described as a "care leaver", especially in European countries
