Illinois Route 336 (Oakley Memorial Highway) is a four-lane freeway/expressway combination that serves western Illinois. Illinois Route 336 (IL 336, also known as the Thomas A. Oakley Memorial Highway) is also used by the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) as a part of Federal-Aid Primary Highway 315 (FAP315) to refer to a future project connecting the cities of Quincy and Peoria via underserved Macomb. As of early 2018, the highway extends north from its starting point in Fowler (near Quincy) where U.S. Route 24 (US 24) and Interstate 172 (I-172) intersect, to US 67 just north of Macomb. IL 336 is 80 miles (129 km) long. c072126491 Stereo Bluetooth c072126491 Officially called "ADAC 24h Rennen Nürburgring" in German ('ADAC 24 hour Race Nürburgring'), it was introduced in 1970 by the ADAC as an official race, unlike the earlier endurance contests that covered 12, 24 (in 1961 and 1967), 36, 84 and even 96 hours, like the Marathon de la Route. This substitute for the Liège-Rome-Liège and Liège-Sofia-Liège rallies was held on the Nürburgring from 1965 to 1971. c072126491

Ampere-hour An average smartphone battery usually has between 2500 and 6000 milliampere-hours of rechargeable electric capacity An ampere-hour or amp-hour (symbol: A·h or A h, often simplified as Ah) is a unit of electric charge, recommended for use in batteries and electrolytic devices. It has dimensions of electric current multiplied by time and corresponds to the charge transferred by a steady current of one ampere flowing for one hour (3,600 seconds). 6 kC (kilocoulombs). Thus 1 A·h equals 3600 A·s or 3. about 2000 to 3000 milliampere-hours c072126491

In practical usage there are far more factors to consider – see below. c072126491 In mathematical terms, the previous example calculated the probability of $P(A \text{ or } B)$ as $P(A) + P(B)$. However, by the inclusion–exclusion principle, $P(A \text{ or } B) = P(A) + P(B) - P(A \text{ and } B)$, one compensates for double counting by subtracting those objects which were double... c072126491 == Route description == c072126491 GPS Locator c072126491 An example of double counting is shown starting with the question: What is the probability of seeing at least one 5 when throwing a pair of dice? An erroneous argument goes as follows: The first die shows a 5 with probability $1/6$, and the second die shows a 5 with probability $1/6$; therefore, the probability of seeing a 5 on at least one of the dice is $1/6 + 1/6 = 1/3 = 12/36$. However, the correct answer is $11/36$, because the erroneous argument has double-counted the event where both dice show 5s. c072126491 ==

Double counting (fallacy) He commutes to work 1 hour each way, 2 hours a day, 5 days Double counting is a fallacy in reasoning. Double counting can be generalized as the fallacy in which, when counting events or occurrences in probability or in other areas, a solution counts events two or more times, resulting in an erroneous number of events or occurrences which is higher than the true result. This results in the calculated sum of probabilities for all possible outcomes to be higher than 100%, which is impossible. Paul Onslow, an ambassador from a small mythical country, stands in the way of an international trade agreement because it would be ruinous for his nation. He receives several threats and on the eve of the final vote he is murdered. A visiting scientist who has invented a special ray restores Onslow to life for six hours. Rather than take revenge on his killer, Onslow devotes his short reprieve to good deeds, including convincing his fiancée to forget him and marry another man; casting his vote against the trade agreement; and destroying the scientist's machine. c072126491
