The first generation 9-5 was introduced in 1997 for the 1998 model year, as the replacement of the Saab 9000. At the time, the car represented a significant development for the manufacturer. In the United States, the 9-5 was introduced in the spring of 1998, for the 1999 model year. An unusual aspect of the railway is that, for several hundred yards across the Causeway from Barry to Barry Island, the trackbed runs directly alongside the Network Rail track, which uses the original up line, while the Barry Tourist Railway uses the down line. This continues from Barry, crossing the Causeway and the 149-yard (136 m) Barry Island viaduct, after which the two lines diverge into separate platforms at Barry Island. The railway does not consider itself a line but rather a network, as it operates two different routes. This is...
