British Army during the Second World War At the beginning of the Second World War on 1 September 1939, the British Army was small in comparison with those of its enemies, as it had been at the beginning of the First World War in 1914. In the new Infantry Training manual for the Army Council, the officer who wrote Infantry Training Part VIII Fieldcraft, Battledrill, Section and Platoon At the start of 1939, the British Army was, as it traditionally always had been, a small volunteer professional army. It also quickly became evident that the initial structure and manpower of the British Army was woefully unprepared and ill-equipped for a war with multiple enemies on multiple fronts. During the early war years, mainly from 1940 to 1942, the British Army suffered defeat in almost every theatre of war in which it was deployed 1e0f16aa
