Behavioral economics began as a distinct field of study in the 1970s and 1980s, but can be traced back to 18th-century economists, such as Adam Smith, who deliberated how the economic behavior of individuals could be influenced by their desires. b31ab3481a information (misinformation, disinformation, propaganda, and hoaxes) claiming the aesthetics and legitimacy of news. Although false news has always been spread throughout history, the term fake news was first used in the 1890s when sensational reports in newspapers were common. Fake news often has the aim of damaging the reputation of a person or entity, or making money through advertising revenue. Nevertheless, the term does not have a fixed definition and has been applied broadly to any type of false information presented as news. information is unreflectively shared. Further, disinformation involves spreading false information with harmful intent and is sometimes generated and propagated b31ab3481a

Many of the prototypical stories and attitudes expressed in classic noir derive from the hardboiled school of crime fiction that emerged in the United States during the Great Depression, known as noir fiction. Film noir of this era is associated with a low-key, black-and-white visual style that has roots in German expressionist cinematography. The 1940s and 1950s are generally regarded as the "classic period" of American film noir b31ab3481a
