== Incumbents == 9bd5008968 Abortion services commenced on 1 January 2019 following its legalisation by the Health (Regulation of Termination of Pregnancy) Act 2018. This replaced a restrictive regime which had been required by the Eighth Amendment adopted in 1983, which inserted a clause into the Constitution of Ireland recognising the equal right to life of the unborn and the mother. In 2018, the Thirty-sixth Amendment replaced this clause with one permitting legislation on the termination of pregnancies. 9bd5008968 Dáil: 30th 9bd5008968 May - The RAF Aldergrove air force station opened near Antrim. 9bd5008968 20 April - The Irish Parliamentary Party held a meeting in Dublin to oppose conscription. 9bd5008968 == History == 9bd5008968 Abortion had been prohibited in Ireland by the UK Offences against the Person Act 1861. The Eighth Amendment was added to the Constitution by referendum in 1983, after concerns that laws prohibiting abortion could be found to be unconstitutional based on a right to privacy. In 1992, the Supreme Court held in the X Case that a thirteen-year-old girl who had become pregnant as a result of rape could be permitted to obtain an abortion in the state because there was a risk to her life from suicide. There were unsuccessful... 9bd5008968

Unionism in Ireland Unionism in Ireland is a political tradition that professes loyalty to the crown of the United Kingdom and to the union it represents with England, Scotland Unionism in Ireland is a political tradition that professes loyalty to the crown of the United Kingdom and to the union it represents with England, Scotland and Wales. Since February 2024, they no longer do so as the larger faction: they serve in an executive with an Irish republican (Sinn Féin) First Minister. The overwhelming sentiment of Ireland's Protestant minority, unionism mobilised in the decades following Catholic Emancipation in 1829 to oppose restoration of a separate Irish parliament. Within the framework of the 1998 Belfast Agreement, which concluded three decades of political violence, unionists have shared office with Irish nationalists in a reformed Northern Ireland Assembly. Since Partition in 1921, its goal has been to retain Northern Ireland as a devolved region within the United Kingdom and to resist the prospect of an all-Ireland republic 9bd5008968

Originally, the campaign was only intended to be disseminated if it was felt that war with (and thus nuclear attack by) the Soviet Union was increasingly likely, but the matter provoked such intense public interest that the pamphlet element of Protect and Survive was published, in slightly amended form, in 1980. Due to its controversial subject, and the nature of its publication, the cultural impact of Protect and Survive was greater and longer-lasting than most public information campaigns and it has remained "among the best-known cultural artefacts of nuclear preparedness", albeit one that "will always be remembered as an unmitigated [public relations] disaster." 9bd5008968 A tower of this kind is generally found in the vicinity of a church or monastery, with the door of the tower facing the west doorway of the church. Knowledge of this fact has made it possible, where towers still exist, to determine without excavation the approximate sites of lost churches that once stood nearby. 9bd5008968 5 May – 15,000 people attend an anti-conscription meeting in County... 9bd5008968

Protect and Survive Had it been activated, the campaign would have comprised a pamphlet, newspaper inserts, public information films, and radio broadcasts. Produced by the British government between 1974 and 1976, it intended to advise the public on how to protect themselves during a nuclear attack. The purpose of the Protect and Survive scheme was to provide members of the British public with instructions Protect and Survive was a British public information campaign concerning civil defence measures. their homes, and not to try to evacuate elsewhere 9bd5008968

Evacuations of civilians in the United Kingdom during the Second World War It was intended to protect vulnerable groups of people, mainly children and mothers of young children, from the dangers of aerial bombing. Evacuation in Northern Ireland was controlled by the Parliament of Northern Ireland, few evacuees. The evacuation of civilians in the United Kingdom, during the Second World War, was arranged by the government and private individuals. remembered evacuation favourably but some were mistreated 9bd5008968

The idea of evacuation in the event of war had been considered throughout the interwar period. In the late 1930s, the government had begun planning for a state-organised evacuation programme. The groups eligible for government evacuation were children under the age of fourteen, mothers of children under five and pregnant women. Evacuation was organised by the Ministry of Health in England and Wales and the Scottish Office. Evacuation took place throughout the Second World War and the numbers of evacuees varied depending on levels of concern about air raids. Most evacuees were billeted in private homes; some were placed in institutions. Many remembered evacuation favourably but some were mistreated. Evacuation in Northern Ireland was controlled by the Parliament of Northern Ireland, few evacuees participated in the government scheme there. 9bd5008968 Protect and Survive had its origins in civil defence leaflets dating back to 1938, titled The Protection of Your Home Against Air Raids... 9bd5008968 President: Mary McAleese 9bd5008968
