New Journalism Lester Markel polemically criticized New Journalism in the Bulletin of the American Society New Journalism is a style of news writing and journalism, developed in the 1960s and 1970s, that uses literary techniques unconventional at the time. In traditional journalism, the journalist is "invisible"; facts are meant to be reported objectively. It is characterized by a subjective perspective, a literary style reminiscent of long-form non-fiction. Using extensive imagery, reporters interpolate subjective language within facts whilst immersing themselves in the stories as they reported and wrote them. third-person, and acknowledged the subjectivity inherent in his account 7391a2ff77
