Computer graphics Computer graphics is a core technology in digital photography, film, video games, digital art, cell phone and computer displays, and many specialized applications. It is often abbreviated as CG, or typically in the context of film as computer generated imagery (CGI). Computer graphics deals with generating images and art with the aid of computers. The non-artistic aspects of computer graphics are the subject of computer science research. It is a vast and recently developed area of computer science. A great deal of specialized hardware and software has been developed, with the displays of most devices being driven by computer graphics hardware. Computer graphics is a core technology in digital photography, film

Computer graphics deals with generating images and art with the aid of computers. The phrase was coined in 1960 by computer graphics researchers Verne Hudson and William Fetter of Boeing 5246e3f688
