Moderation (statistics) , age, level of reward) variable that is associated with the direction and/or magnitude of the relation between dependent and independent variables. , sex, ethnicity, class) or continuous (e. g. g. regression for one independent variable at a specific level of the other independent variable. Specifically within a correlational analysis framework, a moderator is a third variable that affects the zero-order correlation between two other variables, or the value of the slope of the dependent variable. The third variable is referred to as the moderator variable (or effect modifier) or simply the moderator (or modifier). The effect of a moderating variable is characterized statistically as an interaction; that is, a categorical (e. For example, suppose that both A and B are single dummy
