Organization development (OD) is the study and implementation of practices, systems, and techniques that affect organizational change. The organizational changes are typically initiated by the group's stakeholders. The goal of which is to modify a group's/organization's performance and/or culture. OD emerged from human relations studies in the 1930s, during which psychologists realized that organizational structures and processes influence worker behavior and motivation 02500b05fb

Effects of climate change on agriculture Many pests and plant diseases are expected to become more prevalent or to spread to new regions. These issues range from greater heat stress to animal feed. 18 (8): 2329–2340 There are numerous effects of climate change on agriculture, many of which are making it harder for agricultural activities to provide global food security. "Characterizing heat stress on livestock using the temperature humidity index (THI)—prospects for a warmer Caribbean". The world's livestock are expected to be affected by many of the same issues. These effects of climate change can also increase the risk of several regions suffering simultaneous crop failures. Regional Environmental Change. Rising temperatures and changing weather patterns often result in lower crop yields due to water scarcity caused by drought, heat waves and flooding. Currently this risk is rare but if these simultaneous crop failures occur, they could have significant consequences for the global food supply 02500b05fb

Differing from more technology-oriented IT management approaches like network management and IT systems management, IT service management is characterized by adopting a process approach towards management, focusing on customer needs and IT services for customers rather than IT systems, and stressing continual improvement. The CIO WaterCooler's 2017 ITSM report states that business uses ITSM "mostly in support of customer experience (35%) and service quality (48%)." 02500b05fb Organization Development allows businesses to construct and maintain a brand new preferred state for the whole agency.
